The Perjury, Gc, of High Church-Priess.

True Englishman can forget the Terror and Aftoniament the whole Nation was in when they faw King Jemes, whose Religion oblig'd him on pain of Damnation to extirpate all Protestants, filling up his Army with Iriff, and other Cut-Throat Papiffs, having before dispensed with the Laws in order to place such Men in all Civil Posts as were at the Devotion of the Jesuits, who intirely govern'd the King's Conscience. Then the Clergy nor only abandon'd their Dodrine of Paffive-Obedience, which till that time they had made the Characteristick of a true Church-Man , but did all that Men could do to inspire the People to Act like Freeborn Englishmen, in defence of their Religion, Laws and Libertys; none were more forward than they to invite the Prince of Orange to come over at the Head of an Army, & on his Landing encouraged all either to join him, or otherwise to take up Arms in order to diffres K. Fames. Every Body knows that ABp: Sancroft shewed so much Zeal for this glorions Cause, that he went in Person to demand of K: Fames's Lieurenant the Keys of the Tower; and another Venerable Prelate, on that happy Occasions nor only pix on a Blue Coar, Jack-Boots, &c. but conducted her prefent Majesty to join those who had actually taken up Arms against her Father; so much did the esteem the Cause of the Protestant Religion, and of her Countrys Liberty, a. bove all other Obligations. In a word, this unanimous and heafry Concurrence of the Clergy, with the rest of the Nation, in opposing K: James, forced Dr. Atterbury Rights of Conv. to celebrate their Praise, and give them this glorious Encomium, "That none p. 113, 362. were more instrumental than the English Clergy in promotting the common Deliverance, a ProteRant Clergy, the professed Affertors of the just Free"doms and Rights of Mankind in Religious Affairs, and "who have been more than once instrumental is shaking off Tokes of every kind from the Necks of Englishmen"

After this, who could expect that such numbers of these Religious Men should so soon damn, what themselves, and the whole Nation had been acting at the Revolution, and maintain that our All, our Fortunes, our Wives and Children, may our very Lives depend on Will and Pleasure, and are entirely at the disposal of the Prince, who on pain of Damnation is not to be resisted, tho his Tyranny be ever so insupportable, as having a Divine Right to an absolute and unconditional Obedience? These Bowstring Doctrines are at all times invollerable in a Free Nation, but especially when the Lawfulness of the Government is built on the Lawfulness of the Peoples withdrawing their Allegiance from a King, who had openly invaded, and designed Twas to the surprize of every Body that High-Church resum'd these old Slavish Notions, not only in contradiction to all their Discourtes and Actions at the Revolution, but in desiance of all the Declarations, Subscriptions, Oash and Obligations, which ever were required by GOD of Man, to Tie and Engage Men to one another. Nay, they have dealt as deceirfully with GOD as with Man. How frequently and solemnly have they mocked the Almighty with most hypocritical and sham Thanksgivings for our happy Deliverance from Popery and Slavery, even when they preached such Doctrines, as made it Damnation to testift a Tyraut who was bringing both Popery and Slavery.

Every one sees how impossible tis to coin a Distinction that can in the least excuse High-Church from perjury in swearing to bear true Allegiance to K: William, while they thought K: James had neither parted with, nor could sorfeir the Right he had to their true Allegiance: yer this Oath they broke thro like a Cobweb, by the Distinction of de Jure and de Fatte; and no doubt applauded them. lelves for having found out fuch an happy Expedient as gave them all the Protections and Advantages of the Go.

This impious wiffling of High- church with their Oaths, made the Parliament judge in accellary to cut off all their knavish Directions, and seave no room for any wresched Evalion; and thetefore they obliged in to fign the Allocianation; which declares K: William to be Lawful and Rightful K: of England: and in it they mutually promise and engage to stand by and affift each other to the utmost of their Power, in Defence and Support of his Majeffies Person and Government, against the late K. James, and all his Adherents, and in supporting and Defending the Suecellion of the Crown as by Law Established.

Tho in subscribing this toleran Declaration, there was no roum left for Subrestinges, yet this had no other effect on High-Church-Priests, than to make them rail the more birterly at the Revolution, and be the more Active in preaching up all fuch Doctrines as made it Daranation to wn K: William for their Rightful and Lawful King.

Yet notwithstanding this, the Parliament believing there were forme degrees of wickedness that the most profligate would boggle at and few to abandoned as not to have tome remorfe for Periury on Periury, or at least not to be in love with Infamy, they enacted that all should swear, what before they had fubicribed, "That K: VVilliam was "Rightful & Lawful, & that they would bear true Faith and Allegiance to him, and that the Pretender had no "Right or Timle whatever, and that they would fland by, defend and maintain, to the utmost of their Power, "the Protestant Succession, as by Law established in the House of Herover, (the there were above twenty who by High-Church Princip as were to precede that House;) and that they acknowledg and fweat all this according to the express Words, and according to the plain and expels understanding of them; and that they make this

Acknowledgment, Recognition, Renunciation, Abjuration and Promise, heartily, willingly and truly, upon the true Faith of a Christian. And this was enacted again mutatis mutandis, in the Oath they are enjoined to take to the present Queen, Yet these things went down with them as glibly as a Bumper of Claret to thealth of their Popish King, whom, rather than lose the least triffle, they will Abjuse ten times a day: Nay, High-Church Priests, the more they swear, the more they think it their Duty to be Forsworn, And those Oaths which they can't break without senouncing the Faith of a Christian, have no other Effect on them, than to make them the more active and industrious in Preaching up, with an uncommon Zeal, all those Doctrines which are inconsistent with the late & present Government, & t'Protestant Succession.

The Parliament at the Revolution was Governed by this Principle of Eternal Truth, That a Nation can never be reduc'd to such Circumstances, as not to have a Right to all for its own Preservation; but that on extraordinary occasions, it will always be lawful to break thro the ordinary Rules in all fuch things, as could have no other reason for their Instirution, than the common Safety, that Suprem Law of Nature, & Nations. And therefore in the Entail they made of the Crown, when K: Fames by his illegal Proceedings had Abdicated his Legal Government, they took no Notice of the then Prince of Wales, and postpon'd all other Titles, to invest K: William with the sole Administration, and afterwards excluded for everall Papists,& Persons marry'd to Papists, Nay, condemn'd the Popish Pretender as a Traitor, notwithstanding all the bundle of Evidences recorded in Chancery, to prove he was not suppositions. Which in every step being Diametrically opposite to the Principles of the High-Church Priests, who are never influenced by the Good of Humane Societys. every Body must see, that all the Oaths they have taken fince the Rev. Lution, are directly contrary to their C

And this appears most plainly by their Conduct on that Day, which from their Abuse of it is call'd their General Madding-day; for then they never tail to run down all that the Lords and Commons did at the Revolution, in order to damn the Settlement built on it. Their insolent Harangues at that time put a Man in mind of the Bacchenelie in old Rome, where Slaves took the Liberty to insult their Lords and Masters, who gave them Bread.

The Design of that Day of Humiliation, set a part to deprecate God's Judgments for an Action which few alive approve, and none had a hand in, is most scandalously perverted, when tis made use of to alienare Peoples Affection from the present Government and Protestant Succession: and there's nothing now which more requires a day of Humiliation, than the crying Sin of Perjury, which High-Church Priests new themselves guilty of every where but most especially in the most Holy Places, and on the most Holy Days, and on the most Holy Occasions; when tisk their Duty to warn the People against all Sins, but chiefly against such as are of so deep and black a Dye, as Sedition, Perjury, and underming the Protestant Succession, and by consequence the Protestant Religion. Have we not too much Reason to apprehend, that so horrid a prophanation of all that's bacred, must pull down the most dreadful Vengeance on the Preachers and Hearers, on the Priests and People! Till a stop is put to these Blasphemous Abuses in the House of GOD; ought not every Pious Christian, in inter abhorrence of to infamous and execrable a practice. to fay with the good Old Patriarch, O my Soul, some not thou into their Secrets, nor to their Affembly, mine Honour be not thou united!

A Man would be surprized (if any thing High-Church Priests say or do could surprize him) to see them not only renounce the only good Ast they ever had a mare in, in joining

What other Quarrel have they against Mr. Houdly, to whom they bear a Mortal and Implacable Harred, notwithflaucing he has (which one would think hould merit their Favour) writ against the Dissenters, and the Rights of the Christian Church, but that he is so much in love with the lare Revolution, that he does not defire, ofee another, and herefore makes it his Buliness to justific it a-gainst their sensless Cavils? Nay, his plain they have no other Crime ro object to him, but that he has so much zeal for their real interest, as to vindicate their resisting King Fames, in the Defence of their Religion and Country: and to flew how they might, would they be true to their own Revolution-Principles, lawfully Iwear to he prefent Government, the Protestant Succession, and abjure the Pretender. But High Church will sever forgive him to prefumpruous an Ariempr: no, they will be perjured ten thousand times over, rather than owe the lawfulnels of taking the Oaths to fuch Abdicated Doarmes.

How widely did the Lower House of Convocation differ in this matter from the present House of Commons! The sormer were so far from approving of Mr. Hoadly! Principles, that they addressed the Bishops to concur with them in a Synodical Censure of his Sermon, for the Dishonour is brought to the Church; while the latter call that which he has write, in Desence of the Dostrine laid down in his Sermon, A strengers Justification of the Principles on which her Maisley and the Nation afted in the late Recontion, and an eminent Service both to Church and State. And indeed his this Address, and not the Sermon, that has not only been a Libel on her Majestys Conduct at the Revolution, but a Dishonour to the Church, by condenning those Principles by which the Church, when in the greatest danger.

danger, was preserve'd from urter Ruin and Destruction. And if that which faves the Church may bring Diffionour to it, these Convocation-Men are never like to bring fuch Dishonour to the Church. But it is not only the Laity who think the greatest danger that ever can happen to the Church mult be from the Church-Men themselves, but even the best Men among the Clergy confess it; As for instance, the good Bishop of Lincoln Dr. Wake's appeals declares, That nothing at this day or in behalf of the preserves us from Ruin, but that we King's Suprem 1, 1, 121. preserves us from Ruin, but that we (the Clergy) have not power of our selves to do the Church a Mischief; and the Prince, who sees but too much of our Temper, is 100 gracious to us, and has too great a Concern for the Churches good, to Suffer in to do it. And tis evident her Majestie is as gracious, has the same Concern. for the Churches good, fince She will not let the Convocation fit to do the Church a Mischiet.

Among the many Reasons why the Bishop of Lincoln thinks the Clergy, if they had Power, would Ruin the Church, One is, That there are, as he says, 16 spine December of Disciplinarians rise up from among our selves, who seem to somply with Government of the Church, as others do with that of the State, not out of any Constitute of their Duty, or any Love they bear to it. but he eause they cannot keep their Perferments without it. They have our Constitution, and Revile all such as stand up in good Earnest for it; and yet for all that Resolve still to ning nest nger The only Reason that the professed Jocobites do or can give for their not taking the Gaths, is, that their Principles of Passive-Obedience and Non-Resistance do inviolably attach them to the Interest of the St. Germans Family, in opposition to the present Government, and the Protestant Succession. And since High Church maintain the same Doctrine, ought they not, is they would not be thought to mean the same thing, to endeavour to convince

The the Swearing Facebites make the highest Court to the Nonjurors for their Steddiness to their common Principles, yet the others can't sometimes forbear to give them pretty severe Reprimands for their Swearing contrary to their Consciences; as to instance in the great Favourite of High-Church, the celebrated Mr. Lesley, who says, 's a confer to Bishest Severe Fest the Common People have got acking's State of gainst the Clergy, that there was but one Ireland. The thing formerly the Parliament could not do, rage 123.

That is, make a Man a Woman; but now there's another, they can't make an Oath which the Clergy will not take.

The Author of a Jacobite Pamphlet, which all the World gives Dr. Hicks the Honour of, to ingratiate himself with High-Church, makes a Panegyrick on them for Swearing contrary to their Consciences, and waiting for an Opportunity to throw off the Government they have sooten Sworn to. Preface to fome Diference and Dr. Burger and Dr. Titletion.

of the Church : Nay I have Reason to hope , that they wait for the times of Healing and Refreshing, when the may come again to Communion with us under their Rightful Bishop. I know in some Measure what I say to be true; and if any Man doubt of it, let him confider what inclination the Convocation discovered at it's first fitting down. And in the Margin he says, Among the worthy Men bere described, may be Reckon'd the lale learned Mr. Warton, who put out Archbishop Laud's Works; Dr. Dove, who all the World know took the Oaths; with fo much Reludance; and once turn'd Dr: B. out of his House, for arguine, as be thought too warmly for the Government: But more particularly Dr. Scot of worthy Memory; And the learned Dr. Busby; I dare not Name the Living. None can accuse the High-Church of ingratitude, since every one knows, what a greaveneration they have for the Man who complements to highly for being fortworn, and who Represents Perjury, in those he Names for worthy Men, as a most Heroick Action.

Many admited the impudence of the Pretenderin attemping with so very sew Forces such a Powerful Government, but then they did not consider how many years the High-Church Drummers had been bearing up for Volencers on his Acount. But the that attempt has happily miscari'd, yet 'ris very melanchely, to consider how since that time the High-Church Pulpats have doubt'd their Efforts, to make way for another Descent. Nay the one of the Trumpeters of Sedition is prosecuted in a Parliamentary way Yet that has had no other Effects on his True Brethen, then to cause Men to Preach up with more fury than ever these Hellish Doctrines; As if they hop'd with their Numbers, and daring insolence to intimidate the Parliament.

So that now after the ipending of so much Blood and Treasure in defence of the Revolution, things feems to be brought to this pais, that the Representatives of the Narson must be under a necessity of disputing the Lawfulness of it with High-Church Priests, who without any regard to their Oaths, are daily telling the People in as plain terms as they durit, that all the Steps leading to the prefent Setlement, by which Her Majesty Reigns, are founded on a damnable Rebellion, in which the whole Nation has been involved. Were this true, High-Church needs not be at any great pains to prove that a National Guilt, Requires a National Repeditance, and that they had no way to Arone for this Damnable and Unnatural Sin, then by reducing things as foon as pollible to their former course and. old channel. So that if our Allies are not to be Berray'd, as well as these Nations given up to the Pre ender, and all Europe by confequence to French Tyrangy, and Poperv; 'Tis not the fault of High-Church, who had they not Reviv'd their abdicated Dostrine of Paffive Obedience, the te had not been, in all probability, by this time tuch a Mouffer. in the Nation as a Protestant Jacobite.

(B)

For which Conduct of theirs, I flourd be glad if a better Reasonrean be Assigned, then not they quickly disparing in a Government, founded on Liberty, to ger such a Spiritual Tyranny, as can only be obtained by means of Arbitrary Power, Penal Laws, and Engroffing of the Preis; And seeing how all attempt of this kind have turn'd to their unter confusion, they have resolved to do their best to defiror the confirmion both in Church and State, and to make way for a Popish Pretender. And if they can by any mean bring this about, risbut Damning the Reformation, as well as the Revolution; and then they may be fire to gain the same Spiritual Powers as their Popish Predeceffors enjoy'd. And why they should not Damin one as well as the other. there can be no reason, since the Do-& ine of passive Obedience are not more inconsistent with the principles of the Revolution then the powers, they claim over the Confeiences of the people, are with the principles of the Refermation, which had been long fince deftrey'd. had it-not been for that Revolution they are forward to Sacrifice to the invertely of a pretended Prince, bred up in the urmost Aversion to the Reformation, of The best they can fay for being instrumental in restoring Popery, is that they aim at the Orown of Martyrdom; And his but Reafonable, That they who are foready to make Martyrs of all that differ from them, should be as ready to suffer Martyrdom themselves.

I should not have made this furmise of the conduct of High Church Priefts, could that otherwise be accounted for, or were they not as notoriously guilty of perjuty, when they take the Oath of Supremacy, as of Allegiance, fince nothing can be more inconsistent then the Supremacy, they claim by Divine Right over t'Queen astheir Ecclefiastical Subject with that Supremacy the Law invelts the Queen with over the Clerry, and which they as Her Eccleliastical Subjects have Sworn more than once to maintain.

And can we think that fuch Men as their would ever femple, when they found it their interests to prefer to the Supremacy of a Woman, that of the Pope, as Pauriacch of the West, and to allow him what so many Councils. have declar'd it to be his due the Right of Receiving Ap peals from all the Churches under his Parriarching. And Mr. Lefley, who is cheem'd the Guide of the Universitye and Inferior Clergy, prefers the Popal Supremite, notwithstanding all it's Encreachments, to the Regal, when he fays, That the Usurpation of the Pope on the first is the Episcopate; made the Bishop of Spalato to come case of the Ro-over to England, but finding here a more 1841e, 1-142. Heterogenious Erastianism in the Regale, he return de And that the Reformation of the Gallican Church would Exceed ours, sou'd they keep as clear from the Regale, as they have from the Pontificate, p. 265.2d. Edit.

I might here add, That 'tis directly contrary to the Prin-

Principles of High-Church Priests, to allow that Lay Powers can diffolve the Spiritual Relation of Bishops to the People of their Diocess; and consequently by their own Notion of Schism, whosever owns the Communion of any Bishops put into the Bishopricks of those so deprived, are guilty of Schism. And yet did they not do all this, when the present Bishops were put into the Sees of those ideprived by Parliament, a Lay-Power, that by their Principles is incapable of depriving even the lowest Ecclesiasticks.

As High-Church Prints always express d a great indig. nation agrinst that common Saying, That Priests of all Religions are fill the same, so I must do them that Justice. as to own they have sufficiently consuted it, by shewing there never was any Set of Priests, halt so vile and profligate as themselves, who tho they abhor the present constitution of Church and State, and most by their Principles believe it no less then Damnation to become a Member of either, and are daily preaching up Notions destructive of both, yet have made no scrupte, not only to own both, but to enter into the most solemn Engagements, and to take the most Sacred Oaths, to be true to both; By which they have made themselves more infamous then those poor Rogues who are Pillery'd for Perjurie in leffer matters. And these Godly Priests seldom miss a Sunday but they Pillory themselves in the Face of the Gongregation, when they invent such Doctrines as are inconfistent with the Oaths they, have taken both to Church and State.

Would not the Romans upon the driving the Tarquins out of their City, have cordemned hofe who should have Preached up the Unlawfulness of all Resistance, as Enemys to their new Setlement, and in a Traitorous Conspiracy to bring back the Tyranny? Or would not the Dutch (to give an instance nearer home) upon their throwing off the Spainish Toke, have adjudged such Preachers to be in the Popish and Spainish interes? And have we not the same reason to believe. Men of these Principles which

But the by an unacountable indulgence, High Church Priests, have been suffered to spread the infection of Jacobitism far and near, yet sure his not too late to put a check to the growing Mitchiet, and not let the Faiston think it self too powerful to be controled. What can be more worthy the Wisdom of the Nation now Assembled in Parliament, than by some effectual Law to put a stop to all such sedicious Harangues, as restect on the Principles by which the Revolution was brought about, and tend to alienate People Assection?

They who consider what curs d Instruments of Tyrashive the Pulpits have been in most Countrys, and how impossible is that the English constitution can without a Miracle be preserved, if they who have the Education of the Gentry and Nobility may with impunity instil into em such Principles as must a blige 'em to endeavout its destruction: they, I say, who resect on this, and how insuperable the Presidice of Education is, will think a Nation oan't be too much on their guard, in a point on which the Eternal as well as Temporal Happiness of themselves and their Posterity does in so great a measure depend.

Will not the World think we do not Value as we ought our happy constitution, if they see its greatest Enemys permit'd twice a Week to Banter, Ridiciale. Libel, and insult it? who if they are far, very far from suffering at present any inconvenience by preaching these Jacobitish Notions, and are affur'd of all manner of Advantadges when by their means a new Revolution is brought about will they not continually employ their mercenary Tongues and Pens to that end, to the great discouragement of all that are in love with the Present Constitution both in Church and State?

To conclude, northing wou'd be more certain then the the confequence of a new Revolution must be giving in all our present Liberty, losing all the Glorious Advantage which, by a Lasting Peace that cannot be far off, must ac cutento Great Britaid, and lering the French Kint over run all Europe.
